Editor's note

Poštovane kolegice i kolege,

Izuzetno zanimljiv, sadržajan i aktuelan broj časopisa Medicinska reč je pred vama. Raznovrsna tematika radova pruža čitaocima mogućnost da usavrše i nadograde posebna stručna znanja, ali i da ta znanja uporede sa sopstvenim iskustvima i rezultatima svog rada.

Na početku ovog broja časopisa grupa autora iz Republike Severne Makedonije prikazala je rezultate i analizu ankete o oralnom zdravlju koja je sprovedena među zdravstvenim radnicima iz primarne zdravstvene zaštite u Makedoniji, kao i među studentima stomatologije i medicine. Ulogu etarskih ulja u borbi protiv infekcija respiratornog sistema i njihovo antimikrobno dejstvo prikazala je grupa autora koja se sa različitih aspekata bavila ovog problematikom, pokazujući značaj interdisciplinarnе saradnje u lečenju pedijatrijskih pacijenata. Problem zlostavljanja i zanemarivanja dece, kao i povreda nastalih zbog toga je sve veći, pa su autori jednog rada upravo prikazali rezultate lečenja zlostavljane dece, gde su stavili poseban akcenat na mere prevencije i na sve ono što svi mi kao društvo možemo učiniti da sprečimo nasilje nad decom. U ovom broju časopisa takođe je dat i pregledni i ilustrativni rendgenološki prikaz kraniostenozе, kao i prikaz slučaja hidrocefalusa u praksi. Na kraju je, kao i svakog puta, dat dokumentovan i temeljan rad iz istorije medicine.

Dakle, nastavljajući svoju ustanovljenu koncepciju časopisa, a u skladu sa svojom širokom tematskom orijentacijom, predstavljamo vam šest novih radova, koji su, kao i do sada, dostupni čitaocima u otvorenom

Dear colleagues,

The latest, quite interesting and meaningful issue of the journal "Medical Word" is in front of you, with various topics, providing readers with the opportunity to improve and upgrade special professional knowledge, but also to compare it with their own experiences and work results.

At the beginning of this issue of the journal, a group of authors from the Republic of North Macedonia presented the results and analysis of a survey on oral health that was conducted among primary healthcare workers in North Macedonia, as well as students of dentistry and medicine. The role of essential oils in the fight against infections of the respiratory system and their antimicrobial effect was presented by a group of authors who dealt with this problem from different aspects, showing the importance of interdisciplinary cooperation in the treatment of pediatric patients. The problem of abuse and neglect of children, as well as the resulting injuries, is increasing, so the authors of a paper have just presented the results of the treatment of abused children, with a special emphasis on prevention measures and on everything that we as a society can do to prevent violence against children. In this issue of the journal, a comprehensive and illustrative X-ray presentation of craniosynostosis, as well as a presentation of a case of hydrocephalus in practice, is also given. In the end, as always, there is a documented and thorough work from the history of medicine.

Therefore, continuing our established conception of the journal, and following our broad thematic orientation, we present six new papers, which are available to read-
